THE TRAINING SQUADRON HERE

Famous Ships Come with the Navy Academy Men

The training squadron from the United States Naval Academy, which has been cruising along the coast, arrived in the lower harbor about eleven o'clock this morning.

The fleet comprises Admiral Dewey's famous flagship, the Olympia, which is now the flagship of the fleet and Capt. Charles A. Gove commanding the same.

The famous old frigate Hartford, the equally famous flagship of Admiral Farragut, Commander Harold K. Himes in charge.

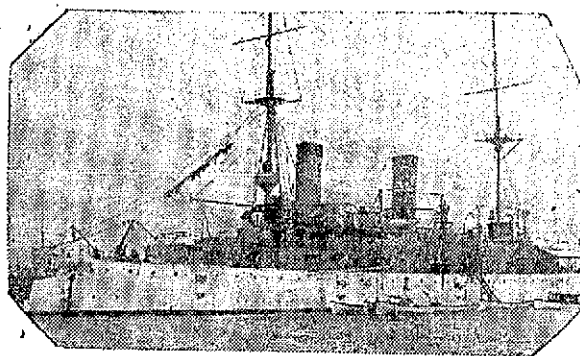

The other ships of the squadron are the U. S. S. Chicago, Commander William H. G. Bullard in command, and the monitor Tonopah, commanded by Lieutenant Douglass B. Dismukes.

On the arrival of the ships the Olympia saluted the flag of Rear Admiral B. K. Moore with thirteen guns and the yard batteries responded with seven guns.

The ships anchored off Kittery Point and had just dropped anchor when the yard tug Nezahscot made a special trip to the harbor carrying a lot of mail which arrived here ahead

KITTERY LETTER

Death of an Aged Woman

Tugboat Disabled for a Few Days

New Fire Company Soon to be Organized

Rain Was Welcome but it Spoiled a Good Many Plans

Kittery, Me., Aug. 5.
Kittery correspondent's telephone 297-5.

Though today's rain is a veritable elixir of life to parching crops and all other verdure, it is rather disconcerting to several out door events which have been anticipated. The attendant fleet of small boats will be entirely lacking when the naval cadet practice squadron arrives, the band concert at the navy yard for the Navy Relief Society will be interfered with, and the lawn social scheduled to be given on the Rice Public Library grounds by the Christian Endeavor Society of the Second Christian church this evening will be held in the vestry.

The Eastern Star picnic at Quamphagan park Wednesday was thoroughly enjoyed by all the large number who attended. In the evening dancing was in order and it was at a late hour when the excursionists returned.

The selectmen met in their office on Central street Wednesday evening and further developed plans for the organization of a fire company and the reduction of prevailing high insurance rates. Both are crying needs.

Whipple Lodge, Independent Order of Good Templars, held a regular meeting Wednesday evening in Odd Fellows' Hall.

Lutis and Landers will give a dance in Grange Hall Saturday evening.

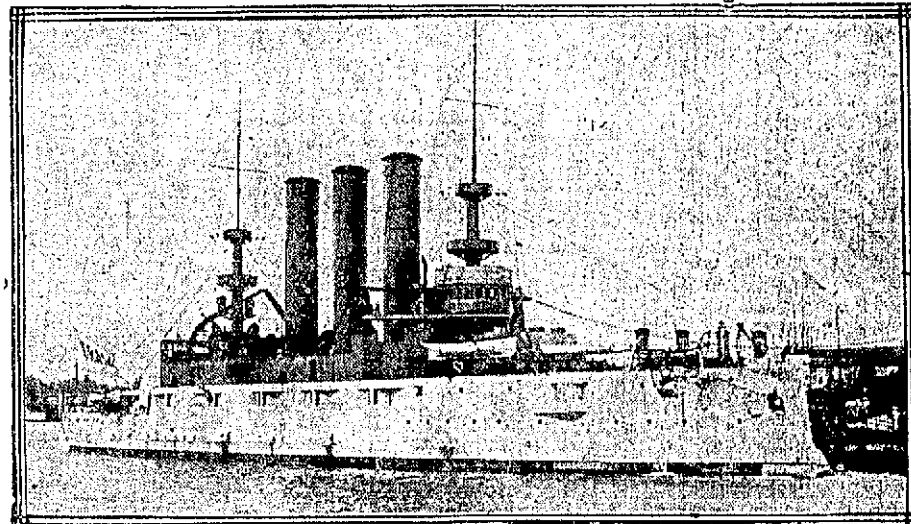

Another of the Kittery Yacht Club's enjoyable hops was held Wednesday evening at the club house, the usual crowd being present. Music was furnished by Lutis and Landers. Ice cream was on sale.

Four famous crafts comprise the squadron now at anchor in the harbor: The frigate Hartford was Admiral Farragut's flagship at the battle of Mobile Bay; the cruiser Olympia was Dewey's flagship at Manila, the cruiser Chicago was the first flagship of the new white squadron and the monitor Tonopah is practically an embodiment of her famous Ericsson ancestor which vanquished the Merrimac. On her last year's visit here she was the Nevada, but that name was appropriated by the navy department for a Dreadnought, now building. The fifth vessel of the fleet, the monitor Arkansas, is not present this year and the 860 cadets on board the ships are in closer quarters than ever.

It is the general opinion that A. J. Krouse, the prisoner who escaped from the navy yard Tuesday is by this time beyond recapture, at least for a time.

THE MAINE HAS COME

THE BATTLESHIP MAINE

Arrived from Provincetown This Afternoon

The Herald's predictions that the battleship Maine would arrive before August 15 were verified when she arrived from Provincetown and dropped anchor in the lower harbor at two o'clock.

Capt. William B. Caperton immediately paid his respects to Admiral Moore, commandant at the navy yard, and plans were made for bringing her up to the yard later in the day.

She will go out of commission and be thoroughly repaired from keel to fighting top.

The Fleet Leaves Provincetown Provincetown, Aug. 5.—Quietly and without display, all except the Maine, the battleships of the North Atlantic fleet, which have been practicing in Cape Cod bay for the past month, steamed out of this harbor last evening bound for Hampton Roads, Va.

Off the Virginia capes they will supplement their practice in the calm waters of Cape Cod bay with maneuvers and practice under rough conditions.

The battleship Maine, which alone of the vessels composing the fleet remained behind, stayed here over night and today sailed for Portsmouth navy yard where she will go out of commission for repairs. There was almost a panic and a slight explosion on that ship Monday. While she was in this bay a number of boiler tubes and nipples were blown out. Four of the ship's twenty-four boilers have since been condemned.

The battleships were preceded in their departure by several hours by the flotilla of eleven torpedo boats. These sombre little craft headed their noses out of the harbor and then scurried round the tip of the Cape. It was planned to give them a run at full speed when a certain distance out. In preparation for this all had been carefully groomed and were considered fit.

The greater vessels left in single file, headed by the Connecticut, flagship of Rear Admiral Scaton Schroeder. Following at intervals, and giving the Cape shore the same wide berth, came the other battleships of the four divisions, in the following order: Kansas, Vermont, Louisiana, Minnesota, Idaho, Mississippi, New Hampshire, Ohio, Georgia, Nebraska, New Jersey, Rhode Island, Virginia and Wisconsin. It occupied nearly three-quarters of an hour for all to leave the harbor.

Besides the Maine, there remained behind the cruisers Dixie and Castine, parent ships for the torpedo boats and submarines, respectively; a small fleet of submarines which are undergoing their acceptance trials and several naval tugs. The bun-bunmen with their little craft also left during the day. They follow the battleships to Hampton Roads, there to resume their occupation.

The last visit ashore of the officers of the fleet on Wednesday morning was one of farewell to the "ladies of the fleet" who have been staying at local hotels. Wives and sweethearts boarded the train for Boston, where they will connect for Old Point Comfort.

EVENTS OF ELIOT

Three Church Societies Had Outings

A Dangerous Grass Fire Near the Town's Center

Eliot, Me., Aug. 5.

Samuel L. Adlington's condition is improving and it is expected that he will recover from the serious injuries which he sustained by being thrown from his carriage last Friday evening.

The South Eliot Methodist Sunday school had a delightful picnic on Wednesday at Mrs. Frank Wharren's summer cottage and grounds near Green Acres. A delightful time is reported.

The East Eliot Methodist parish had a largely attended lawn party at James Bartlett's, Rosemary, Wednesday evening. There was a large attendance and a good time is reported to have been had by the light of the numerous Japanese lanterns. Ice cream and cake were sold. Master Stewart Clark gave some pleasing recitations.

The Congregational circle had an outing, a meeting and a picnic supper on Wednesday afternoon and evening in the grove of Dr. John L. M. Willis on the river bank. A good number of members and guests attended.

Mrs. Martena Cole of Lawrence is visiting Mrs. Levi Frost. Mrs. Augustina Brooks has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Levi Frost. Mrs. Starvant of New York has moved into her new summer cottage on the old river road.

A fire, supposed to have started from a careless smoker's match, burned more than an acre of the dry stubble in the field at Everett Hammond's on Wednesday afternoon. The whole neighborhood had a lively time at fighting the blaze.

Calvin H. Staples has a call at the navy yard, after a long lay-off.

Mrs. Eleanor M. Corryell drew a large audience at her violin recital in the Green Acres Extension on Wednesday afternoon. Today's program is in the Extension, on account of the wet, and is: 9.30 a. m., devotional service; 9.30 a. m., The New Step in Internationalism, Mrs. May Wright Sewall of Indianapolis; 3.15 p. m., Women's Christian Temperance Union day, "Some Present Day Problems," Mrs. J. K. Barney of Providence. The Friday program is: 9.05 a. m., devotional services; 10.30 a. m., Pines, "Mysticism of Fairy Tales," Mrs. Charles Johnston; 3.15 p. m., Persian Pines, Bahai Revelation.

CRISIS PASSED IN SPAIN

Madrid, Aug. 5.—The government is sued yesterday official statement saying that the crisis in Spain is now at an end and that the country is tranquil from the bay of Biscay to the Mediterranean sea. The release of Senor Iglesias editor of El Progreso and a certain relaxation of the censorship are considered the best evidences that the danger is past.

The minister of the interior has given out a statement in which he says that not only the reservists but volunteers are flocking to the recruiting stations for service in Morocco.

Senor Solortega, a republican senator has arrived here from Barcelona. He denies that the recent movement in that city was separatist, and says that the revolutionists, during the two days they were masters of the city, did not commit a single assassination or an act of cruelty. The inmates of the religious institutions held when the buildings burned.

One of the greatest losses at Barcelona is the libraries of the Christian schools and the scientific museum, containing together 70,000 volumes. A new civil governor has been appointed at Barcelona.

The publication of letters from Don Jaime, the pretender to the Spanish throne, has removed the apprehension of a Carlist movement.

NEWFIELDS

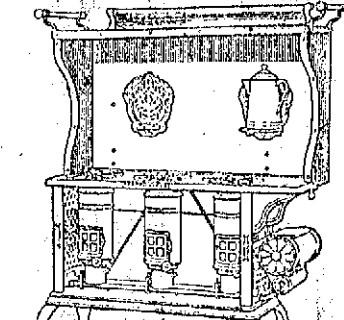

A brush fire broke out Tuesday afternoon on the land owned by Henry T. Taplin and spread over an area of twenty-five acres, doing hundreds of dollars worth of damage to a young growth of pines. It started about three o'clock supposedly from a spark from a passing locomotive, and it was well into the night before it was extinguished. A carload of men was dispatched to aid the firemen, and they found the flames most stubborn to oppose. A watch was stationed for the night. A wind fanned the smoldering embers to flames again during the night. The children were much annoyed by the smoke, which settled like a cloud over the town and invaded sleeping rooms. The wind of Wednesday afternoon fanned the embers to life and the same conflagration began its ravages afresh. It soon spread to a heavy and handsome growth of pines owned by H. T. Taplin, and after devastating about fifteen more acres of valuable timber land jumped the fence and burned onto the land of C. C. Littlefield. There is some cedar wood on this lot. The railroad officials again sent a crew of men to fight the flames, which raged fiercely till a late hour. There is food for the flames for many miles, and it looked like a disastrous fire till the rain came.

John D. Clay, the town's oldest citizen, at the age of 88 years, was on Tuesday presented with a gold headed ebony cane by the Boston Post. The gift was sent from the Post to Thomas Sheehy of the board of selectmen with the instructions that it be presented to the town's oldest citizen and thus the distinction fell to Mr. Clay. The cane is transmittable and at the death of Mr. Clay it goes to the next oldest citizen, thus it being the idea of the Post that it shall always be held by the oldest citizen of the town. It is a splendid specimen of manufacture. Mr. Clay has been a resident of this town for about twenty years, having previously lived in Vermont and Medford, Mass. He is in good health and retains all his faculties, and is much gratified by his gift.

DOVER DOINGS

Dover, Aug. 5. Eastern New Hampshire Panama Grange held its twenty-fifth annual field meeting on Wednesday at Central street, with over 100 people present. The attendance was not large during the forenoon social entertainment, but the basket dinner in the evening dining room was a very enjoyable event. At 2 o'clock the singing of the songs of the grange was taken, and nearly 200 people were offered to sing. Deputy Edgar J. Hays called the meeting to order and presented Mrs. Madeline E. W. Colver of Farmington, lecturer, who arranged and conducted the following interesting programme of musical and literary exercises: Violin solo by George S. Henderson of Washington, D. C., accompanied by Miss Barville; invocation by the chaplain; address of welcome from the city of Somersworth by Congressman John F. Barker; response by Edgar J. Hays, Rochester, master; vocal solo, R. Florence Barville, Somersworth; address, H. O. Dudley of Peterborough, master of the State grange on "The Question of the Hour"; recitation, W. H. B. Fowell of Somersworth; violin solo, Mr. Henderson. "The place

NEW HAMPSHIRE AT G. A. R. CAMP

Concord, N. H., Aug. 5.—The New Hampshire party to the annual meeting of the national encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic in Salt Lake City left on Wednesday afternoon in special cars attached to the Chicago express.

Included in the party were Junior Vice Commander A. D. Scoville of Manchester, David R. Roys of Claremont, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Williams of Suncook, Mrs. and Miss Jones, Mrs. Hart, Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Carson of Milton, Mr. and Mrs. William W. Pike of Groveton, Ransom Hunt of Newport, Benjamin R. Wheeler of Salem, William H. Richmond of Manchester, Mrs. Smart of Hillsboro, Emma E. Looney of Milton and James S. Wood of Dover. At White River Junction the party was joined by H. D. Bishop of Littleton and a large delegation from the north country.

At the encampment the New Hampshire delegation will urge the election of Dr. Granville P. Conn of Concord as surgeon general, and his chances look good, as his candidacy has been endorsed by the departments of New York, Minnesota, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts and Maine, and many others have signified that they favor the proposition, but are noncommittal as to their action on the first ballot.

STOPPED IN PORTSMOUTH

Minister's Trolley Car Trip from Philadelphia to Portland.

Portland, Me., Aug. 5.—Rev. William Biggerstaff of Philadelphia, pastor of the North Tenth street Presbyterian church, arrived here yesterday afternoon completing a trip which is believed to be the record for distance traveled wholly by electric to this city. The first section of the trip was between Philadelphia and New York city, where he remained over night, and then proceeded to New Haven, Conn., where the second stop was made at night. The next relay station was at Worcester, Mass., and from that place to Portsmouth, N. H., thence on to this city.

At no time did he travel later than eight o'clock in the evening and thus ensuring a full night's rest at each stopping place. Rev. Biggerstaff speaks highly of this mode of travel as a vacation trip and feels much benefited physically even with his few days travel. He will remain in the vicinity some weeks taking advantage of the many opportunities of making short trips into the country.

BETTER POSTAL CARDS

Hitchcock Trying to Get the Paper Quality Improved.

Washington, Aug. 5.—Postmaster General Hitchcock is trying to improve the appearance and quality of the United States postal card. Postal cards are now manufactured at Rumford Falls, Me., under a private contract which has five months to run, but already bids have been invited and opened for furnishing them to the department for four years from Jan. 1 next. The value of the contract is about $300,000, and 75,000,000 cards must be turned out each month.

At the opening Tuesday there were only three bidders for this contract, the West Virginia Pulp and Paper company of Lake, Md.; the Universal Supply company of New York city and the government printing office of Washington, D. C.

It is the desire of the Postmaster General to change the printing on the cards and possibly the color of the paper so that they will compare favorably with the postals of the other countries comprising the Universal Postal Union.

Government chemists are now engaged in analyzing the various samples of paper submitted.

YORK BEACH

In the best played game of the season here, Biddeford won from York Beach in an eleven inning game, 4 to 3 on Wednesday afternoon. York Beach evened up the score in the fourth inning and after that there was no more scoring until the eleventh. Hazelton pitched a phenomenal game for York Beach and he was ably supported by McLane. Errors by York Beach contributed greatly to Biddeford's run getting. Cummings held well for York Beach while Foye and Bernard played the best game for Biddeford. The score:

THOUSANDS SEE HERO

Newport, R. I., Aug. 5.—Thousands from all over New England are in Newport to see the naval officer hero, released from Bremen's reef and towed to Sullivan's wharf, where she is lying in the mud. A grand had to be placed around to keep the spectators off.

W. W. Wetherespoon and Capt. James T. McAllister, who had charge of raising the cutter for the Arbuckle company, declare there is little water in the Ner. It is expected the vessel will be repaired so that she can be towed to the New York navy yard under her own steam in about two weeks.

Today a part of the Arbuckle plant was sent to Berzard's bay to renew work on the Yankee.

STATE RESTS IN THAW CASE

Prisoner's Former Counsel to the Rescue

LIGHT SHED BY GLEASON

Lawyer Says It Was by His Orders
That Delmas Was Retained as Chief Counsel in Murder Trial—Letters and Report of Detectives Which May Counteract Claims That Thaw Suffered From "Delusions"

White Plains, N. Y., Aug. 5.—The state has rested in the Thaw case and from now on it devolves upon Harry K. Thaw and his attorney, Charles Morschauser, to offset the testimony of the state's witnesses, who have sworn without exception, under the cross-examination of District Attorney Jerome, that Thaw is still insane and would be a menace to the community if released from the asylum at Matteawan.

John B. Gleason, Thaw's original legal adviser after the shooting of Stanford White, came to Thaw's aid late Wednesday and cleared up a few old mysteries, sweeping away some of Thaw's apparent vagaries upon which Jerome has dwelt so persistently.

Mr. Gleason's most advantageous statement, from the prisoner's standpoint, concerned Thaw's change of counsel during his trial and the engagement of Delphin M. Delmas as chief counsel for Thaw. This had been done at his (Gleason's) orders, he said, and was not due to a whim of Thaw's.

Through Gleason, Thaw's lawyer hopes to show that Thaw's attitude toward Stanford White was not due to delusions, as the state contends, but was prompted by what Thaw knew of White's practices. Gleason has about fifty letters which he received from Thaw and they may prove the sensations of the hearing if read.

Mr. Morschauser tried to prove the charges against White yesterday by reading parts of Evelyn Thaw's testimony at the trials. Thaw's letters to Gleason bear upon this, it is thought.

Trying to clear Thaw of another "delusion," Gleason presented a report of detectives regarding an alleged attempt on Thaw's life on the night of Dec. 24, 1903. The wording of this document was not made public, but it was introduced to counteract the state's contention that Thaw had delusions concerning the "Monk" Eastman gang, which he believed had been engaged by his enemies to beat and perhaps kill him, and after White's death the architect's friends entered into a conspiracy to "railroad his slayer to Matteawan."

If he can show that Stanford White and a number of wealthy friends did maintain several establishments where young girls were ruined and that an attempt really was made on his client's life, Morschauser will be able to dissipate some of the "delusion" evidence of the state. He intimates that he has some surprises in store for the remaining days of the hearing, including ten lay witnesses who may testify as to what Thaw knew of White.

SENATE IN NIGHT SESSION

Regulars and Insurgents Display
Temper During Political Debate

Washington, Aug. 5.—As though protesting against being called out to a night session, its members were very tardy in their attendance upon the meeting of the senate last night. Nearly an hour passed after the appointed time before a quorum could be assembled. It was finally obtained after an order was issued to the sergeant-at-arms to bring in the absentees.

The entire session was consumed by speeches by Senators Cummins and Daniel. During the evening a political debate was injected into the proceedings and "regulars" and "insurgents" handled accusations as to the effect their course would have upon the political future of their party.

BENEDED IN PUBLIC

Head of Man Who Murdered His Mother Is Lopped Off in Paris
Paris, Aug. 5.—A sudden official announcement that a public beheading would take place at 4:30 o'clock this morning in the Boulevard de la Chapelle created a sensation in Paris, which had not seen an execution in fifteen years.

In view of the revolting crime of the man executed this morning President Fallieres refused to commute his sentence to life imprisonment. The victim was one Buchenin, aged 23, a butcher. In 1908 he stabbed his mother, and this not resulting in her death quick enough he finished her by strangulation. The motive for the crime was robbery.

The crowds were unable to get within two blocks of the guillotine, which was erected beneath the trees beside the prison wall. There were some jeers as the closed wagon containing the condemned man left the prison yard by a side street and then drove up the boulevard 200 yards to the guillotine.

As the trembling wretch stepped out of the wagon, following a priest, it was seen that, according to the law dealing with parricides, he was barefooted and his head covered with a transparent black veiling, while a cape of crude material but half concealed his naked chest.

AMERICANS ALL SAFE

Barcelona City Council Not Unanimous in Denouncing Violence

Barcelona, Aug. 5.—The American consulate here announces that all Americans in Barcelona or in the affected districts during the recent disorders are safe.

At a meeting of the city council here a resolution was submitted denouncing the recent violence and incendiarism and was passed by the narrow margin of six votes, the balloting being 22 for and 16 against it.

The government issued an official announcement saying the crisis in Spain is now at an end and that the country is tranquil from the Bay of Biscay to the Mediterranean. The release of Senor Iglesias, editor of El Progreso, and a certain relaxation of the censorship, are considered the best evidence that the danger is past.

HOST OF CALLERS AT WHITE HOUSE

President May Not Get Away
Before Saturday Afternoon

Washington, Aug. 5.—President Taft spent several busy hours Wednesday with a host of congressional callers. Altogether there were eleven senators and twenty-three representatives on the long list of statecrafters who called to say good-bye, to discuss details of the president's fall trip to their districts and to talk tariff matters.

It also was "moving day" in the executive offices, several vanloads of office furniture, fittings and letter-files being shipped by express to Beverly, Mass., where the summer executive offices will be located. The president's departure is contingent upon the adjournment of congress. He hoped to get away tomorrow, although he may be delayed until Saturday afternoon.

MARGIN WINS AGAIN

Captures Second $10,000 Stake In This Year's Grand Circuit Races

Kalamazoo, Mich., Aug. 5.—Margin landed her second $10,000 stake of the season when she won the feature of Wednesday's card. She finished first in only two of the heats, but the others were divided and she was best in the summary, the race ending with five heats under the rule.

Margin won the first handily and in the second she beat Marie N. by a neck. Judge Lee beat Margin in the third, and in the fourth one could get near Elviretress. The fifth saw Judge Lee draw out and win in the last part.

Two Thousand Persons Take Part In Production of "The Canterbury Pilgrims"—Big Band, Pipe Organ and

Toward Success of Unique Spectacle
—Regret at Absence of President

Gloucester, Mass., Aug. 5.—A spectacle unique in the annals of New England, and probably the most elaborate of its kind ever seen in this country, brought to a splendid close last night the celebration of the first settlement of Gloucester, 286 years ago.

Seated in a natural amphitheatre overlooking the harbor, 5000 persons witnessed the production, by a cast of 2000 players, of "The Canterbury Pilgrims," a pageant most artistically conceived and brilliantly staged.

"Gloucester Day" celebration is an annual fixture in the local calendar, but this year an unusually elaborate program was arranged, and when it was thought that the occasion would be marked by the presence of President Taft the citizens vied with each other to assist in the plans and make the affair belicose all previous efforts.

The inability of the president to come here on account of the pressure of tariff affairs in Washington caused much regret and some slight changes in the program necessary at the last moment, but the arrangements as a whole were carried out on the scale originally planned.

The city was in a gala garb of flags and bunting, a squadron of warships and the many vessels of the famous fishing fleets in the harbor were profusely decorated also, and a parade in which the sailors from the squadron assisted, served as a sort of curtain raiser to the grand fete of the evening.

The pageant was given at Stage Fort park, a peculiarly appropriate spot historically because it includes the site of the house of Roger Conant, the first governor of the little Gloucester colony. Percy Mackaye is the author of the play, "The Canterbury Pilgrims," and he was assisted in the production by Erin Pape, one of the summer colony of artists here, who developed the artistic elements and by Walter Damsch, who arranged the music.

On an open-air stage 175 feet long and 680 feet in depth, the principals in the various acts and the hundreds of people making up the choruses faced an audience seated in an immense natural amphitheatre. There was no curtain, but a beautiful display of colored fire screened the stage between the acts.

The music was by a band of sixty-five pieces and a large pipe organ built expressly for out-of-door work. At certain periods in the performance the bells of the city churches, connected electrically with the organ, sounded their chimes, while a salvo of artillery from the warships was also a feature of one portion of the play.

It was around the Chaucer story of the "Wife of Bath" that the plot of the play was laid, with the "Coburn Players," a company of professionals, carrying the principal parts in the cast. The scenes were laid in Southwick in 1387, and the costumes of all the great throng of participants was designed to be as historically correct as possible.

The first act was preceded by a salute of twenty-one guns from the cruisers in the harbor and an overture, after which a curtain of blue and green fire which appeared before the stage was withdrawn, and a series of folk songs and dances followed, woven into the action of the play.

The last act, the fourth, began with a jousting tournament before King Richard, performed to the sound of battle music, and ended with a beautiful festival called "The Spirit of the Flowers."

Side Crushed In by a Car
Manchester, N. H., Aug. 5.—Michael Collyly, 50, came from his work at a brewery and stepped directly in front of a car he intended to take so quickly that the motorist could not stop before the car struck him in the side. Collyly's entire right side was crushed in, the ribs being broken from the spinal column. He died in a few minutes.

BIG FLEET SETS SAIL

Base of Manoeuvres and Practice
Changed to Hampton Roads

Provincetown, Mass., Aug. 5.—Quietly and without display, the battleships of the North Atlantic fleet, which have been practising in Cape Cod bay for the past month, steamed out of this harbor last evening, bound for Hampton Roads, where they will supplement their practice in the calm waters of Cape Cod bay with maneuvers and practice under rougher conditions.

The battleship Maine alone of the sixteen vessels composing the fleet remained behind. She will receive various minor repairs at the Portsmouth navy yard.

The battleships were preceded in their departure by several hours by the flotilla of eleven torpedo boats. These sombre little craft set a pace which the battleships could not hope to follow.

to Catch Murderer

HARDWICK IN A FERMENT

Prosperous Farmer Killed by Man
With Whom He Had Been on Friendly Terms For Years—Wife of Alleged Slayer Had Sought Protection of Murdered Man After Quarrel
With Her Husband

Hardwick, Vt., Aug. 5.—Stirred by the murder of Charles Perkins, a prosperous farmer of this town, who was killed in his house, it is alleged, by Joseph Pascal, a neighbor, a large posse of farmers of Hardwick and the neighboring town of Walden, armed with shotguns, are searching for the latter in the woods, determined to take Pascal dead or alive.

After killing Perkins and threatening the other members of the family, Pascal backed off into the woods, covering his retreat with a shotgun, and has not been seen since.

Terrified, the Perkinses remained in their home for over an hour, when one of the sons ventured into town and applied the constable of the village.

When the murder became known the town was thrown into a ferment. Farmers came riding into the village, demanding vengeance against the alleged assassin, and immediately a man hunt was organized.

About 200 farmers and citizens assembled in the village, and after receiving final instructions toward capturing the man, paired off into the woods.

Soon the dense forests and the labyrinth of passages leading into caves and retreats were being scoured by the searchers, who are plentifully supplied with food and ammunition.

In the meantime others returned to the village and patrolled about the confines of the Pascal farm and the Perkins home, where Pascal was last seen. The search will be continued until the mission is accomplished.

Pascal was 45 years old and is said to have gone to Perkins' house in search of his wife, who left home after a quarrel Tuesday afternoon, with her three small children.

The couple have five other children who do not live at home. The fugitive and deceased were friends for years. Mrs. Pascal is said to have been a relative of Charles Perkins, and naturally looked to him for protection and counsel in time of trouble.

An autopsy disclosed the fact that death was due to blows from a blunt instrument which crushed the chest, fractured three ribs and ruptured the aorta. It is the opinion of the physician that a bullet wound in the wrist was inflicted after the other injuries. It was at first thought that Perkins died from the shock caused by the bullet wound, owing to his age. Perkins was 72 years of age.

OWES $66,000,000 IN FINES

Yet Greater New York Continues to Violate a Federal Law

New York, Aug. 5.—The pollution committee of the New York Merchants' association has made an application to Attorney General Wickersham to take action against greater New York to compel the city to make better disposal of its sewage.

The city now owes $66,000,000 in fines for violation of the federal law, according to the committee, which points out that the debt is piling up at the rate of $21,000 a day.

This latest move is in addition to suits already brought to prevent the proposed Bronx sewer and the Passaic valley sewer in New Jersey from further contaminating the harbor.

HUB MURDER MYSTERY

Young Woman Is Killed Apparently
After Severe Struggle

Boston, Aug. 5.—Considerable mystery surrounds the death of a young woman found dead in the room of a man in the South End. The case came to the notice of the police about midnight when William Smith, aged 53, of 2 Oak Place, reported that a woman by the name of Ethel White, aged 26, was dead in his room.

Smith told the police he found the woman ill on his steps when he was going to work in the morning and, recognizing her as a woman who had formerly lived in the house, gave her permission to go to his room and remain through the day while he was away.

Returning late last night he found the woman dead on the bed, with a deep cut in the back of her head. The room was in disorder and the woman appeared to have been through a struggle.

Smith was held by the police pending the result of the autopsy.

LICENSE IS HELD UP

Intimation of Gambling on Grounds of Boston Nationals

Boston, Aug. 5.—The application for the annual license of the Boston National baseball team to play games in this city, which runs from Aug. 1 to Aug. 3, has been returned to the office of Mayor Hibbard with the disapproval of Police Commissioner O'Meara.

Under the city ordinances the application goes to the police commissioner for his approval and is then sent to the mayor for approval and issuance.

It is intimated that O'Meara withheld his approval on the ground that gambling was carried on at the grounds of the club during games.

While the application can be granted by the mayor without the approval of the police commissioner, it is believed a hearing will be held on the matter and that there will be no interference with the playing of games until the matter is finally adjusted.

ALDERMEN TO PROBE CHARGE OF GRAFT

It Involves Getting Contracts
From City of Boston

Boston, Aug. 5.—The Boston board of aldermen voted to investigate the charges by Alderman Curley that President James Donovan of the Democratic ward and city committee was on the payroll of the New England Sanitary Product company.

Alderman Curley declared in his charges that Donovan had been receiving $50 weekly from the sanitary company for the past eight years and had been interested in getting big contracts from the city for the company.

The motion to investigate thoroughly was passed unanimously and Chairman Brand of the board will name the committee to do the work later.

FAREWELL, JOHNSON

Gov. John A. Johnson of Minnesota will not be the Democratic presidential nominee in 1912. He settled that fact on Tuesday when he made his speech in Seattle on Tuesday at the Minnesota day in the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific exposition.

He made what some of the factions have called a "western declaration of independence," and he said: "It is time that the West threw off the shackles of the East. I would preach no sectional divisions and no sectional strife, but Minnesota and Washington and the states between them with those to the south of us, should rise in their might and claim for themselves that fair share of influence in the halls of Congress and in the administration of national affairs to which they are entitled by every law of common sense, as well as of political economy. We as an integral part of the American people should cast our influence and our votes not only to advance the material interests of our own particular section but we should be broad enough and big enough to labor for the common good of our common country. We have in the states west of the Mississippi the undoubted balance of power, no matter under what name the national administration at Washington exists. In the years that have passed our population and our material wealth have not enjoyed that representation to which they are entitled, and furthermore our leaders have been content to follow in no small measure the leadership of men who represent relatively small constituencies and smaller commonwealths. Fifty years of national folly in the enactment of navigation laws and high protective tariffs have crippled American shipping, until over ninety percent of our Atlantic commerce is in foreign bottoms. Notwithstanding this half-century of maritime shame, the United States flag floats today over a merchant marine of about four million registered steam tonnage, which carries to the markets of the world nearly 200,000,000 tons of American products. But on what waters float the colors of this merchant marine, and what freight do these American ships carry? One-half of this vessel tonnage is on the Great Lakes; while the Pacific coast, the Great Lakes and the Mississippi combined boast nearly twenty percent of the total. And the freight which it carries consists of the great staple productions of the West on their way to Eastern and foreign markets—the products of that great army of Western yeomen who demand no fostering hand of government and ask only for that justice and freedom to which they are entitled by natural right under the guaranty of our Constitution and our flag."

There you have a cheap attempt at sectional animosity, with a little extra thrown in, like Mark Twain's Wagner music, to assure the timid that he didn't after all feel quite so bad as his noise might indicate.

The facts are the opposite to what Governor Johnson alleges.

Take a bit of Republican party history, and see whether the East, or the West has dominated. The party's presidential candidates have been:

- 1856—John C. Fremont of California.
- 1860—Abraham Lincoln of Illinois.
- 1864—Abraham Lincoln of Illinois.
- 1868—Ulysses S. Grant of Illinois.
- 1872—Ulysses S. Grant of Illinois.
- 1876—Rutherford B. Hayes of Ohio.
- 1880—James A. Garfield of Ohio.
- 1884—James C. Blaine of Maine.
- 1888—Benjamin Harrison of Indiana.
- 1892—Benjamin Harrison of Indiana.
- 1896—William McKinley of Ohio.
- 1900—William McKinley of Ohio.
- 1904—Theodore Roosevelt of New York.
- 1908—William H. Taft of Ohio.

In fourteen times twelve nominations were of men from states west of the Alleghany mountains. Even that does not tell the truth. Blaine's nomination was won on the far western issue of Chinese exclusion, and Roosevelt's great policy with which he fought for the nomination, was that of irrigation in the arid west. Even in the much-attacked United States Senate the preponderance of representation has been with the scantily peopled new states of the west, and Eastern business interests have considered that their safety was menaced by that condition.

No man can ever hope to be president on such a personal platform as Mr. Johnson has deliberately made for himself. He had a deliberately prepared speech, and it is not the hasty word of a moment.

AMONG OUR EXCHANGES

Navy Yard Administration

The importance of the duties entrusted to the special board convened at Boston to report on the ever-vexing question of navy yard and bureau administration cannot be overestimated. The work of the two previous boards appointed by Secretary Meyer was limited in scope, as it was in the main concerned with the plan formulated by former Secretary Newberry for the economic organization of navy yards. The new board touches larger questions and is dealing with the fundamental principles on which the manufacture, inspection and supply of material should be based.

It is hoped that some method will be suggested through which the various bureaus may co-operate fruitfully and harmoniously and by which the direct responsibility for good work or bad work may be placed. What is needed in shore administration is a continuous policy, one that is rigid in theory and elastic enough to satisfy new conditions. Most of the friction that has given the bureau system an unenviable reputation can be traced either to the want of such a policy or to the vaulting ambitions of various bureau chiefs and over-zealous subordinates.—New York Herald.

Cost of the Spanish War

Public addresses by cabinet officers, illuminating the workings of the government departments at Washington, are in favor under the Taft administration. An address which has thrown much light on naval expenditures was lately made in Boston by Secretary Meyer. He called attention to the fact that the officers and men of the navy had demonstrated an efficient organization when they encircled the globe on a time schedule which excited the envy of every manager of a railway or steamship line. The fleet which has worked so successfully as a fleet ought not to be divided into the Atlantic and Pacific squadrons, but the nation's navy ought to be sufficiently large and effective to give an even force on both coast lines.

Secretary Meyer insisted that the fighting spirit, inborn in all men, is a factor in the development of science and in other forms of modern evolution, and that it is quite possible to turn the same fighting spirit to good account as a preventative of war.

Some interesting facts were given regarding the total cost of the Spanish-American War, which was declared to be $507,000,000. A further amount of $20,000,000 has since then been expended on pensions to Spanish War veterans, an outlay that will continue almost indefinitely. Secretary Meyer's point was that if our government had owned eight more battleships of the Iowa or Oregon class at an expense then of less than $50,000,000, the immense cost of the war might not have been incurred. The secretary insisted that the navy is the most effective and cheapest insurance in which a nation can invest for the prevention of war.—Affairs at Washington, Joe Mitchell Chaplin, in the National Magazine for August.

Baseball
Night.

A SMALL-SIZED fortune has been expended in Chelmsford in the construction of a remarkable illumination scheme for lighting the National League baseball park of that city in such a manner as to make ball games possible at night. The chief problem was not in providing sufficient illumination, but to provide it in such a way that none of the centers of illumination will blind the players.

The plant which converts night into day is composed of 14 powerful carbon lamps, fed by a 250 h. p. dynamo installed on the ground. All the lamps encircle the field, arranged in such a way, that the glare does not blind. Ten of the lights are arranged on 5 towers, two lamps on each, and the other four are operated from the roof of the grand stand and the top of the bleachers. The towers are 100 feet high. The lamps are composed of a bell-shaped galvanized iron hood in which burns an arc from carbons 1 3/8 in. in diameter. No lenses of any kind are used to concentrate the rays, but it is claimed that the intensity is about 5 times more powerful than any other artificial light known—so powerful, in fact, that no instrument has been found that will register it. Night baseball, endurance races, and outdoor meets of all kinds are to be held there.

Sounds Like Christmas, Doesn't It?

Well, come to Music Hall this evening and hear our Stanley McDaniels sing Havilland's latest success of the above title, and you will be so thoroughly pleased that it will seem as though Christmas really does come twice a year.

Also don't forget that Miss DeCoste is still with us, and is certainly "delivering the goods" in her two new ones, "You're a Stingy Thing" and "Dixie Moon."

PEOPLE'S OPINIONS

Pie Like Mother Used to Make

East Wakefield, N. H.,

Aug. 4, 1909.

To the Editor of the Portsmouth Herald,

Dear Sir:

There is one incident connected with my visit to your city last Monday which seems to have been overlooked and it is this:

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Clarkson, knowing my weakness for apple pies, presented me with a monster pie just as the train pulled out of the station, with the admonition that "the box was not to be opened until well out of Portsmouth." It contained a monster apple pie "like mother used to make."

It is needless to add that it must have been baked outside the city limits as I doubt that there is an oven large enough within the city's gates to have held so large a pie. It was delicious.

Very respectfully,

Robert Hester,

Deputy Sheriff, Suffolk County, Mass.

YORK

On August 13 and 14 at York Harbor there will be a Costume Pageant held on the Village Green Friday and Saturday evenings at 8.30 and Saturday at 4 p. m. A cast of seventy-five of the young people of the summer colony and the Marine Band will ensure the brilliancy of the performance. The grounds will be set as a French garden with marble steps, statuary, arches of roses, etc. A court jester introduces the various dancers who vary in age and size from French dolls to ladies in waiting. There is a Squeaky Chasse, a dance of Pierrots and Pierrettes, a Rustic dance and the New Year girls, besides many pas seules by well trained dancers. The performance is under the management of the Misses Florence, whose profession is to produce kermesse and fetes, the organization of the dances is by Mrs. Hobart Moore and the business management by Miss Perkins. The patronesses include Mrs. Endicott, Dexter, Mrs. Paul Snelling, Mrs. Forbes Freeman, Mrs. Robert Appleton, Mrs. Jerrold Kelly, Mrs. Louis Cheney, Mrs. Lippitt, Mrs. Homeyn and Mrs. Newton Perkins.

IT LOOKED GOOD TO THEM

The handiwork of W. Priest had a tryout on Wednesday evening and with less than a crew of 20 men threw a stream of 178 feet and 4 inches. The crew were highly pleased with the work of the machine.

New Hair Treatment

Now Being Used by the Scalp Specialists

The air is full of floating dust, dirt and disease germs, which get into your hair. There is a natural oil on your head that holds the dust fast, and in a short time you have dandruff, itching scalp and falling hair. The pores in your scalp are stopped up, the hair roots get no nourishment, and then your hair begins to fall out. Cleanliness is the one thing needed. Tonics, renewers, invigorators and hair growers do not and can not remove the dirt that causes the trouble. You need Birt's Head Wash, the new scientific preparation for hair troubles now so widely recommended by scalp specialists. This will put the hair and scalp in a healthy, natural condition, so that faded, lifeless hair resumes its natural color. Birt's Head Wash is equally good for light or dark hair, as it is not a dye. The hair of all who use Birt's Head Wash takes on a soft, silky gloss and sheen that every man and woman so much admire. There is no alcohol or ammonia in it, as they are said to make hair turn gray prematurely. Birt's Head Wash is made of Refined Soap, Cocoa Butter, Oil, White of Eggs, Glycerine and a standard antiseptic. There are no better things than these known for cleansing the hair and scalp, and any doctor or druggist will tell you so if you ask him. Beware of using common soaps and shampoos. They often contain too much alkali and that is one of the most harmful things you can put on your head. Even if you did wash your head or have a shampoo yesterday, all the basin with lukewarm water tonight, and wash your head and hair with Birt's Head Wash. You probably thought your head was clean, but you'll be surprised to see what Birt's Head Wash has rid you of. All who read this should make this test.

TRIED TO SELL

TWO ANCHORS

Man Arrested Last Night Had Plenty of Ballast.

Charles Sullivan, at least that is the name he gave the police, was arrested on Water street early Wednesday evening, having in his possession two new anchors and a copper oil can, which he was trying hard to dispose of.

Sullivan was somewhat confused with the bug juice that he had taken aboard, and at first said that the anchors had been given him by the captain to sell. He however could not remember the name of the ship, or where he came from. Charles was locked up and at the present time no owner had shown up for the anchors, which are small sizes and of the patented kind.

On Friday evening the officers and crews will be entertained by the yard officers and those of the gunboats Hiss and Eagle at a reception and dancing assembly to be given in the equipment building at the navy yard.

AN IMPORTANT MEETING

The Portsmouth Board of Trade and Merchants' Exchange meet tonight and it is understood that the when Governor and Mrs. Quincy and his staff will attend. The two companies of the National Guard from this city will attend the affair and act as an escort for the governor. Secretary MacVeagh of the treasury department will attend the fete. The governor and members of his staff are expected to arrive in Walpole, shortly after 12 o'clock, and at 1.30 o'clock a luncheon will be given at the Walpole inn in honor of the governor, a reception will be tendered the governor, members of the staff, and their ladies in the town hall at 2.30 o'clock. The secretary of the Keene Com-try club sent an invitation to the governor to attend the regular meeting of the club on Wednesday evening, Aug. 11 and she.

CITY BRIEFS

Quite a few tags have been sold. Police Officer A. F. Foy of Manchester shot himself through the hand on Wednesday, while cleaning his revolver.

The continued dry spell has begun to dry up the wells, and Rye beach reports the worst conditions for years.

The Elks and the P. A. C. are getting in nightly practice in preparation for their game Saturday afternoon.

Hampton Beach has got a big Hay-erhill colony, while York beach claims the majority of the Manchester people.

Thirteen hits out of sixteen shots fired at a target is pretty good work for the 156th company at Fort Constitution.

The prisoner Krouse, from the U. S. Southern, is still at liberty and there is now small hopes of getting him again.

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Hull, who are making a trolley trip from New York to Portland, passed through this city the first of the week.

A two days' rain would be thoroughly appreciated by about everybody. The roads are being gradually blown over into the adjoining fields.

The local milkmen got the jump on the other places in the state, and will be getting winter prices at least two months before even Boston dealers.

The baseball fans were watching the bulletin boards last evening. Boston taking three out of the four games from the champions was good to them.

The Pomona Grange Annual Field Meeting

Exeter, Aug. 5.—The annual field meeting and basket picnic of the East Rockingham Pomona Grange is due this afternoon at Stratham Hill park. The event is in connection with the New Hampshire state Grange. An attractive programme has been arranged, including a baseball game in the morning between Stratham and Greenland, a basket lunch at noon, and speaking in the afternoon. Addresses will be made by Mary I. Wood of Portsmouth and Charles H. Gardner of Westfield, Mass. Literary exercises will also be held. If the weather is stormy it will be held in the Exeter town hall.

The trouble which began in the Polish quarters Sunday afternoon was ended when Mrs. William Dankoski was held under $100 bonds for the grand jury for obstructing an officer. Mrs. Dankoski was a prominent figure in the mixup and brawl which broke out there. Sunday afternoon when her husband became intoxicated and smashed up things she undertook to protect him when the officers came to make the arrest, and used some violent methods of protection. She was arraigned in police court before Arthur O. Fuller who presided in the absence of Judge H. A. Shute, and pleaded not guilty. She had as counsel Frank H. Tilton of Haverhill, Mass.

Highway Agent Newell S. Tilton is this week making repairs to Water street, and the sidewalk in many places is being torn up to be reconstructed. A large elm tree in front of the jewelry store of James H. Tattersall was trimmed up by a force of workmen yesterday, and the street is soon to be remodeled, the far for the purpose having already arrived.

Charles E. Atwood, assistant editor of the Exeter News-Letter, left on Wednesday for a five days' trip to Montreal, Quebec, the White mountains, Portland, Me., and Saguenay river.

The school board will convert the basement of the Winter street school room into a play room for stormy weather. The contract for the cement floor has been awarded to James C. Burlingame at forty-nine cents a square yard.

A pleasant home wedding took place on Wednesday afternoon at the residence of Mrs. Mary J. Chesley on High street, when her daughter, Elizabeth Francis, became the bride of Harry Taylor. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. S. H. Dana, pastor of the Phillips church, the single ring service being used. The couple was unattended, save for the flower girls, Misses Helen and Margaret Anderson, daughters of Col. H. W. Anderson. The home was prettily decorated with sweet peas, ferns and evergreens and the ceremony was performed under a bell constructed of sweet peas. The parlor was transformed into a veritable bower of flowers. The wedding march was played by a trio composed of Walter C. Green, cello; Carl L. Oakley, cornet, and Miss Elizabeth Folsom, violin. The bride was handsomely attired in a white princess embroidered messaline gown. The ceremony was attended only by immediate friends and relatives, among the number being guests from Lawrence, Mass. and Lee. The couple received many useful and costly gifts, among the number being cut glass, silverware and gold coin. The bride is a graduate of the Robinson seminary with the class of 1901, and the groom from Phillips academy with the class of 1899. He is at present engaged in the banking business as a clerk at the Exeter Banking company. The ceremony was preceded by the serving of light refreshments of tea, cream, cake and punch. The dining room being decorated with streamers of yellow and white, the Robinson seminary colors. Mr. and Mrs. Taylor left on the night train for a wedding tour, itinerary unannounced. After their return they will reside at the home of Mrs. Chesley on High street.

MUSIC HALL

The performance of the Great Little Dauphin at Music Hall this week is without doubt the most marvelous exhibition of its kind ever presented in this city.

Notwithstanding the fact that this wonderful little man weighs only 130 pounds, yet he balances on the tip of his chin heavy dray wheels and steel plows exceeding 180 pounds in weight. Those, together with his many other clever acts, ranks him as one of the strongest and most skillful light and heavy weight manipulators in the world.

For this evening and the rest of the week he will present in addition to his regular performance, one of the most difficult feats ever attempted; that of balancing on the tip of his chin two chairs placed together with a little boy seated in the upper one.

THAW WILL WRITE BOOKS IF RELEASED

Pittsburg, Aug. 5.—Believing that beyond doubt the son and brother will be declared sane, Mrs. William Thaw and her daughter Alice, formerly Countess of Yarmouth, have spent about $25,000 preparing for his home coming and his establishment in business as a literary man. The new Thaw mansion on Fifth avenue has been gone over from top to bottom and a good part of the second floor has been remodelled into a den, study and library for the use of Thaw should he be liberated.

Both Harry Thaw and his relatives have believed he would have had a great future did he but apply himself to literary work, and for a year this has been the main subject under discussion between Harry, Alice and the mother when they visited him. If permitted to leave the asylum he will come with them to Pittsburg and engage in literary work after a little vacation in Europe to brighten up. Mother and sister will go with him to Europe if he is released.

IT'S ALWAYS BAD

The Best of Backs Are Bad When They Ache, and Portsmouth People Know It

A bad back is always bad. Bad at night when bedtime comes. Just as bad in the morning. Ever try Doan's Kidney Pills for it? Know they cure backache—cure every kidney ill?

If you don't, some Portsmouth people do. Read a case of it: Joseph Libbey, Retired Farmer, 31 High St., Portsmouth, N. H., says: "A sharp pain across the small of my back was the first symptoms of kidney trouble in my case. Dizzy spells soon set in and whenever I caught cold I was in misery. When I awoke mornings, I felt tired and my whole body was sore. When I heard about Doan's Kidney Pills I got a box at Philbrick's drug store. This remedy soon relieved me and I have used it on several occasions since with the same good results." For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co. INSURGENTS STILL SHOW STRENGTH IN CONGRESS

Washington, Aug. 5.—A number of the Republican "rulers" have not gone back to the "reservation." The close vote last Saturday on the tariff conference report in the House showed this. An incipient boom for Representative Payne, author of the tariff bill, for Speaker of the next Congress has, in connection with this showing of "insurgent" strength, caused several of Speaker Cannon's friends to contend that Cannon cannot afford to discipline those Republicans who held important committee assignments in the last Congress and who voted with the "insurgents" at the beginning of the present session.

There was no secret made at the time of the Speaker's intention to depose Representative Cooper of Wisconsin, and Representative Gardner of Massachusetts from the chairmanship of the Insular Affairs Committee and the Committee on Industrial Arts and Expositions. There is no indication that the speaker changed his decision on this point, but a number of the stalwarts have expressed to him their belief that he cannot afford at this time to be vindictive. Representative Olmstead of Pennsylvania was practically assured of Mr. Cooper's place at the head of the Insular Affairs Committee and the Pennsylvania delegation is backing him for the place. Representative Weeks of Massachusetts sets now is being spoken of as one of the strongest candidates for the chairmanship of the Committee on Postoffices and Post Roads made vacant by reason of the retirement from Congress of Jesse Overstreet of Indiana. This is one of the chairmanships over which there has been sharp contest, and is one of the selections with which the amiable settlement of tariff differences has had some thing to do.

HOW HADODATE WELCOMED OUR SHIPS

All Sorts of Entertainments for Officers and Men of Harbor's Squadron. A hearty welcome was given the third American Pacific squadron, under command of Rear Admiral Gifford Parker in its recent visit of three days at Hadodate, Japan, according to a report received by the state department from Consul B. J. King. The display of the American flag mingled with the Japanese was very profuse, while dinners and banquets helped to make the stay of the Americans extremely pleasant. Mr. King says that the attentions paid to the visitors and the elaborate programme arranged for their entertainment were without precedent in the history of the port. The town was beautifully decorated everywhere without exception displaying an American and a Japanese flag.

The first Japanese battleship squadron under command of Vice Admiral Goro Ito was specially detailed to assist in receiving the American ships. When he arrived at Hadodate, Admiral Harbar was presented with an address of welcome from the mayor of the town council, the Chamber of Commerce and the principal citizens. There was also a welcoming address from the Ladies Patriotic Association which was accompanied by a beautiful gift.

On occasion of dinner by the mayor and the municipal officers from the landing place to the Kobayashi Hotel where the dinner was given, a distance of one mile the road was lined on both sides with 16,000 school children each holding the American and Japanese flags and singing American National airs as the admiral and his officers passed.

Some of the boats having both one flagstaff, displayed both the Japanese and American flags on the same staff in nearly every case the American colors being on top.

Grant Third Corps of Engineers, grandson of President Grant, has reported at the War Department and formally assumed his new duties as superintendent of the "largest office building in the world" is made by the joint action of the secretaries of State, War and Navy and was given to Lieutenant Grant on the recommendation of General Marshall, chief of engineers. Lieutenant Grant, formerly served as an aide to President Roosevelt and he may be assigned to similar duty with President Taft this winter in connection with his other duties. His wife is a daughter of Senator Root.

FLEET SAILED WEDNESDAY

Start for Hampton Roads—Williams Still in Custody

Provincetown, Aug. 5.—When State Officer Ernest Bradford went out to the fleet Wednesday to make further representations regarding the desired arrest by the State police of David W. Williams, Rear Admiral Schroeder informed him that Williams had been sent to Boston on board the cruiser Prairie. Admiral Schroeder said that Williams would be kept in custody on board the battleship Missouri at Boston until the naval board of inquiry had completed its investigation into the death of H. Foster following a boxing bout with Williams on the battleship Vermont on Friday night last. Officer Bradford later left for Boston.

The fleet was busy all day with preparations for its departure for Hampton Roads, and at four o'clock the big fleet got under way for the South and target practice.

LITERARY NOTES

Recreation for August

A half-dozen big, special features make particularly noteworthy the August issue of Recreation, now on sale by all newsdealers. First of all is an article by Dr. James A. Henshall, "The Black Bass Our Favorite Game Fish." Dr. Henshall is the most noted authority in the world on the life and habits of this popular fish, and his article is bound to create great interest among all sportsmen.

Recreation's Point of View is devoted to the passing of the picnic grove.

Robert J. Burdette Retires

Rev. Dr. Robert J. Burdette, the famous author, humorist and pastor of the Temple Baptist church at Los Angeles, is reported seriously ill in his cottage at Clifton by the sea. He has not fully recovered from a severe injury to the spine, which he sustained in a fall last March.

ANNUAL FIELD MEETING OF WOMEN'S CLUBS

To Be Held at the Weirs on September 8-9-10 and a Pleasing Program Arranged

The annual field meeting of the New Hampshire Federation of Women's Clubs will be held at the Hotel Weirs, September 8, 9 and 10. The details of the program are not quite complete, but it is expected to include a reception in Laconia by the Laconia Women's Club; club reports council meeting and other matters in order of the field meeting; a lecture by some distinguished speaker; a steamboat excursion on Lake Winnepesaukee and other enjoyable social features. As the husbands and friends of members are invited to participate, the occasion affords opportunity for a delightful outing, which New Hampshire club women who are able to attend cannot afford to miss.

THEATRICAL TOPICS

Next Week at Keith's, Boston

There was a time when such an organization as the Fadettes was considered a whole show in itself at highest prices, but D. F. Keith evidently believes in double shows, judging by the program he is announcing for the week of August 9th.

Besides the Fadettes there is a list of vaudeville attractions such as one would expect to find only at the height of the season for every act is without exception a star feature.

Ben Welch, the Hebrew and Italian impersonator, is now conceded to be one of the foremost in this class of work, and he is on the bill. Then there is Fred St. Onge, the old-time champion bicyclist, who with his company of experts, give one of the most difficult and amusing wheel acts that has ever been put forth.

Kelly and Kent are two entertainers who have long held the headline place and Miss Kent's impersonation of a bowery girl has never been duplicated.

Then there is Sadie Jansell, the musical comedy star; the Flying Martins who have one of the swiftest acrobatic acts; Clinton and Jernon in a sketch called "Back to Louisville"; and Estelle Wordette and Company in a sketch.

Footlight Flashes

The marriage of Antoinette Perry and her consequent withdrawal from the stage has caused a vacancy in the post of leading woman for David Warfield. Janet Dunbar, a young actress unknown to fame and said to be a discovery of David Belasco, has been given the position.

William Faversham has secured the rights for a new play just completed by Charles Frederick Nirdlinger Mr. Nirdlinger who is the author of "The World and His Wife," which William Faversham produced last winter, is now in England and was lately the guest of Mr. Faversham at his country home at Chiddingfold, Surrey.

Word has gone out that the great emotional role in the sensational French play Madame X, which Henry W. Savage has scheduled for his first American production in Chicago will fall to Dorothy Donnelly. This is the part played in Paris by Jane Harding, Lena Ashwell will appear in the role in London at the same time.

Eugene Blair is vaudeville in a playlet called "After the Matinee." Al Wilson will produce a new play this year entitled "Metz in Ireland."

THE BIDDEFORD DROWNING

Coroner's Jury Find that the Boat Was Not Fit for Its Use

Biddeford, Aug. 5.—In rendering a verdict last night on the death by drowning of Miss Catherine Lynch, one of the victims of the capsizing of the motor boat Item, on July 30, when a party of thirty moonlight excursionists were thrown into the water in the mouth of the Saco river, the coroner's jury says:

"We find from the evidence and from inspection, that the said boat Item, owing to its form, is unstable, easily capsized and entirely unsafe for the carrying of passengers."

The jury does not recommend any action as a result of the accident, and it is not likely, according to Coroner Walter I. Bennett, that anything further will be done by the county authorities. What action the federal authorities may take is uncertain, but it is said that the owner of the Item had fulfilled the federal requirements, by carrying a life preserver for each passenger.

Among the witnesses examined by the jury were several boat building experts, including Benjamin Jackson of Biddeford Pool, who constructed the Item originally as a steam craft. It appeared in the evidence that the boat was built originally to carry a boiler and engine weighing 4100 pounds and that this spring a 400 pound naphtha engine was substituted.

The jury which rendered the verdict, consists of business and professional men of this city, there being no boatbuilders among them.

GONE TO PORTO RICO

Rochester, Aug. 6.—Miss Katherine Strick, the head waitress at the New City hotel, severs her connection with the same tonight and will tomorrow leave for Boston, from which she will sail for Porto Rico, where she will spend the next two years. She has a fine position in a wealthy family. Last evening several of her friends called on her and spent a very pleasant evening and left several handsome presents.

NORTH WOODS INDIANS.

Natives Who Helped the Whites Across the Upper Wilderness.

It was the North woods Indians who led the white race across the upper wilderness trails and helped that race to get and to hold its footing there. As the lower tribes, such as the Iroquois, were allies of Great Britain in war, so the people north of the great lakes were the allies of that country in industry. Without the sturdy voyagers of the north, half Indian at least, the fur trade could not have been.

If you read the Story of Sir George Simpson, of David Thompson, of Sir Alexander Mackenzie, of Harman, of Kearney, of Alexander Henry the younger—indeed, of any of the early or late explorers of Hudson bay or the old Northwest company—always you will find that the real man behind the puck and paddle was this northern native. Perhaps he was not full blood. Indeed, for the most part the typical voyager was not. From the time of Greyson du Lhut on down, wild white blood has merged with wild red blood.

The first for traders on both sides our territorial life got on very well, for there was much marriage according to the laws of the aboriginal world, and the tendency was for the two races to dwell in harmony. It was brouwer, cows and plows that broke up the game—Emerson Hough in Recreation.

PAID THE DEBT.

The Captain Settled the Account Before His Vessel Sailed.

In Burnaby's "Travels in America in 1759," a book quite popular during the latter part of the eighteenth century, the following incident is related: The captain of a British man-of-war cruising off the Massachusetts coast left his wife in Boston. On one of his visits to port she came down to the wharf to meet him, and she was saluted as a true and loving sailor's wife deserved. This violation of law was at once reported, and the captain was brought before the magistrate and sentenced to be publicly whipped. There was no getting out of it, and the captain submitted quite gracefully. Just before the departure of his ship he gave an elaborate entertainment, to which all of the magistrates were invited. After the festivities were over and every one had shaken hands with the captain and was going over the side the magistrates were seized by the arm and stripped to the waist. Each one was led to the gangway, where a vigorous onslaught gave him thirty-nine lashes on the bare back, and then hustled him over into a boat amid the cheers of the whole ship's company.

New Tobacco Got Its Name.

The origin of the word tobacco is not definitely settled. Oviedo, one of the early Spanish chroniclers, says it was named after a Y shaped instrument which was commonly used as a snuffing tube. The two prongs were placed in the nose, and fumes of the powdered leaf were inhaled. This was called "tobacco," which was the name given to the plant. On the contrary, one of the islands of the West Indies is said to have furnished the name. It is asserted that tobacco was first taken into Spain in 1492 by Hernandez, a physician, who had been sent by Philip II. of Spain to investigate the products of Mexico. It next reached Portugal, was soon introduced into France by the French ambassador, Jean Nicot, and sent to the Portuguese court in 1559. When he returned to his home he presented some of the seed and leaves to Queen Catherine de Medici, and the scientific name of the plant was thereafter designated as "nicotine" in his honor.

Balancing an Egg.

All the world knows how Columbus on a historic occasion made an egg stand on end. After many legendary theories had been advanced on balancing the egg he set the egg on end by, of course, smashing down hard enough to form a base, but the problem is capable of still another solution. It is an easy matter to set an egg on a plate, for instance, if you know how. The trick is impossible until the egg has been balanced in an upright position. The position of the balanced egg at the end of the shell toward the center of gravity until the sphere can be spun or even balanced with ease.

Weight of Brain.

The average weight of the human brain is forty-nine and a half ounces for males and forty-four ounces for females. In males the minimum weight is about thirty-four ounces and the maximum sixty-five ounces. In females the minimum weight is thirty-one ounces, and the maximum fifty-six. In newborn infants the brain weighs about 11.65 ounces for the male and ten ounces for the female.

A Beneficent Rule.

MOON WAS UNDER A CLOUD.

An Incident of the Theater in the Earlier Days.

Early in the season of 1850-7, and J. M. Barron, the veteran actor, was in Petersburg, Va., at old Phoenix hall. The business was such that nightly long rows of idle green seats could be seen from the stage. In those good old times the utility people did not get more than $200 a week. The leading people received due bills on the next good house. We had in the utility contingent a Uto named Moon, and a bright Moon he was; but he was so lazy his shadow would not follow him. He was often late. The star was Charles Coudock, and those old timers who can yet sit up of an even keel may remember that O. C. could do cuss poetry in four colors when riled, even if it were not in his contract.

We were rehearsing "The Willow Copse," and Moon's cue came, but no Moon showed up. The call boy started with a shout, "Mr. Moon!"

Three Utes away up stage joined in, "Mr. Moon, this is you; stage is waiting."

No Moon. Coudock began to pace from tormenter doors to L. E. No Moon.

Finally Coudock bawled out: "Where is that Moon—that utility idiot? Always late and doesn't know his cues when he hears them."

No Moon yet. It appeared that Miss Moon had presented the old man with a due daughter—a new Moon. The father Moon went out to celebrate with the boys and later on was wheelbarrowed home a full Moon.—New York Telegraph.

PLAYING THE PIANO.

Rubinstein's Way as a Teacher With His Pupils.

"Once I played a Liszt rhapsody pretty badly. After a few moments he said, 'The way you played this piece would be all right for a child or a man.' Then, rising and coming toward me, he would say, 'Now let us see how we play such things.' Then I would begin all over again, but hardly had I played a few measures when he would interrupt and say: 'Did you start? I thought I hadn't heard right?'"

"Yes, master, I certainly did. I would reply."

"Oh, he would say vaguely, 'I did not notice.'"

"How do you mean?" I would ask.

"I mean this," he would answer: 'Before your fingers touch the keys you must begin the piece mentally—that is, you must have settled in your mind the tempo, the number of touches, and above all, the attack of the first notes before your actual playing begins.'"

"On another occasion I asked him for the fingering of a rather complex passage."

"Play it with your nose," he replied, 'but make it sound well.'"

"Once Rubinstein said: 'Do you know why piano playing is so difficult? Because it is prone to be either affected or else afflicted with mannerisms, and when these two pitfalls are luckily avoided then it is liable to be dry! The truth lies between those three mischiefs.'—'Hofmann's Piano Player.'"

Sweets Are Great Baby Savers.

The young, unsoppled human animal has a liking for sugar just as it has for sunlight, for fresh air, for play, for paddling in the surf and plunging in the stream or for food when it is hungry and sleep when it is tired and, subject, of course, to reasonable limitations, as wholesome as any of the others. This is precisely what our specialists in children's diseases and broad minded family physicians have been urging for decades past, and it would be safe to say that next to the banishment of starchy foods, greasy and fatty from the nursery and the substitution of pure, sweet milk, few things have done more to increase the vigor and happiness of modern children and to cut down our disgraceful infant mortality than the free and intelligent use in the nursery of sweet fruits, preserves, sugar, taffy and butter-torch. Woods Hutchinson in Success Magazine.

Date Cake With Coffee Icing.

One-half cup of butter creamed, one and one-half cup of brown sugar added and beat together, two eggs well beaten, one-half teaspoonful cinnamon, one-half teaspoonful nutmeg, one and one-half teaspoonful baking powder, one-half cup sweet milk, one and three-quarter cups sifted flour, three-quarter cup dates, stones removed. Cut up dates and reserve a little of the flour to shake over them.

Icing—Two tablespoonfuls strong, strained coffee and the same quantity of the white of an egg stirred together. Thicken with powdered sugar until stiff enough to spread. Allow the cake to cool before it is iced.—Boston Post.

Getting Down to Facts.

"I love you." "I've heard that before." "I worship you madly." "Loose talk." "I cannot live without your love." "Get some new stuff." "Will you marry me?" "Well, now, there's some class to that."—Indianapolis News.

RAILROAD NOTES

The finest lot of piling received at this station for many years has arrived from the south and is being stored at Noble's Island. Judging from the amount on hand the company are planning for much bridge or wharf work.

A house has been built over the gasoline engine which operates the turn table at the round house.

Lewis Nelson, secretary of the Pennsylvania railroad arrived here in a special Pullman car, Republic, on his way to York Beach, where he will pass a month.

Travel on Wednesday was exceedingly heavy and some of the east-bound express trains were run in sections.

A crew of workmen under Foreman Mark Simek are engaged in raising the new double track west of Eliot station.

The depot debating club are now discussing the ins and outs of America's national game, baseball. The close position of the leading clubs of the American league gives them plenty to talk on and, if there is anything connected with this branch of sport that has not been brought out in argument by this club, it is yet to be discovered by the league magnates.

RAIN PLEASES EVERYBODY

Even the Folks Whose Plans are Very Badly Disarranged

Never, within the memory of the oldest inhabitant of Portsmouth, was rain more welcome than this morning.

The ground was parched from a drought which has lasted through more than two warm summer months except for a few showers which hardly moistened the soil below the surface. Even the grass fields were dusty. The garden and field crops were suffering from thirst and on every side there were tales of wells and springs gone dry.

AT NAVY YARD

Assistant Secretary Winthrop Coming

More Mechanics to be on Duty

Big Batch of Sentenced Men from New York

The Band Concert is Postponed to a Later Date

Will Probably Get Here Next Week

Assistant Secretary of Navy Beekman Winthrop accompanied by the Judge Advocate of the navy, is expected to pay an official visit at the yard some day next week. This is the first official visit of the assistant secretary who comes to get acquainted with need of the station and to look into matters that have been brought to the attention of the department.

Eagle Docked This Morning

The gunboat Eagle went in the dry dock shortly before eight o'clock this morning where she will remain for ten or twelve days.

Band Concert Postponed

Owing to the inclement weather the band concert to be held this afternoon in aid of the Navy Relief Association has been postponed and may be held on some day of next week.

A Long Stay for the Hist

The U. S. S. Hist will probably remain at the yard nearly four months. Since the arrival of the vessel many of the wives of the crew have joined their husbands and taken rooms in Kittery and this city.

Some May Come Here

The crowding of the Chelsea hospital with sick sailors from the fleet may make it necessary to send some of the patients to the hospital here. At present there are 185 at Chelsea, the largest number confined there for many years.

A Theft at Charlestown

William J. Porter, employed at the Charlestown navy yard, was brought before United States Commissioner Hayes at Boston on Wednesday charged with the larceny of a piece of brass composition valued at $1, on Aug. 3. He pleaded not guilty and was held in $200 for a hearing.

To Take the Ajax Berth

The U. S. S. Maine will be docked at the coaling plant or the berth now occupied by the Ajax and the latter ship moved to the shears dock.

Unexpected Ending of This Case

The case of Lieut. W. Osburn of the U. S. S. Cheyenne has been disposed of by the court martial board at Mare Island. This case caused no small amount of interest in navy circles and action was brought against the lieutenant by Naval Constructor Evans as a result of a separation in the Evans family, after which Mrs. Evans, an English actress, again took to the stage. Osburn will not be court martialed but simply let down with a reprieve. While the navy has dropped the case it is said a civil suit may follow.

Very Little Left Over

Nearly every article in the condemned stores which was offered for sale on Tuesday was purchased by the people who attended this sale on that date.

Will Come Up This Afternoon

The U. S. S. Maine is expected to come up from the lower harbor at high water between four and five o'clock this afternoon.

It Means a Lot of Work

It is the opinion of the yard officials that it will take ten or twelve days to put the U. S. S. Maine out of commission after the orders have been received from Washington to carry out the work of taking off her stores. This order, however, may not be issued for some time after the vessel is tied up at the dock.

Prisoners From New York

Sixteen prisoners from the U. S. S. Hancock arrived at the yard today, the largest number to come for the Southery in several days. They were taken to the yard by special trip of the ferry boat 132.

A Few More Added

The labor board today sent out a call for three shipwrights, two wood calkers and one oakum spinner, required for duty in the manufacturing department.

It's Time Something Was Done

Among the recent improvements which is being made at the yard is a walk to the yard cemetery which the yard officials have become much interested in and are going to cause a decided improvement at this last resting place of the navy dead.

Lots of Room Needed

A large crew of laborers are clearing out certain parts of the old store house, making ready for the stores to be removed from the U. S. S. Maine.

PERSONALS

J. W. Emery was a visitor at Milton today.

Ex-Councilman W. J. Cader was in Boston today.

Edward Fredrick of Philadelphia, a member of the old Fredrick family of this city, was at the Rockingham last night on an automobile trip. He was accompanied by C. A. Hughes and George W. Taft, of the Quaker city.

THE CALL CASE HEARD

Sessions Will Continue Nearly All This Afternoon

The hearing of Howe Call was begun in the municipal court this morning. To accommodate the crowd, the crowd the hearing was held in the superior court room at the court house.

Mr. Call is charged with defrauding J. Edward Pickering with whom he was interested in various business deals.

The witnesses summoned this morning for the prosecution were J. Edward Pickering, Thomas Call, Miss Mary E. Call and Dr. W. O. Jenkins.

At 12:30 an adjournment was taken till two o'clock in the afternoon. The hearing is hoped to be finished late this afternoon.

The first witness was Thomas E. Call, formerly Thomas E. Call, Jr., brother of Howe Call. He testified that he owns the lumber business of Thomas E. Call and Son and that the business has never been owned in whole or in part by his brother.

Mary E. Call testified that in July, 1907, Howe Call died her his real estate in Portsmouth and Newington, and that in August of that year he wrote her from Seattle to hold the property for the benefit of his creditors—herself, her brother and Mr. Pickering. She had since held the property subject to the advice of her counsel.

If she ever made a different statement it must be owing to having misunderstood the question. A deposition to the effect that the property was deeded to her in payment of her claims was given as the cause for this line of inquiry by the prosecution.

J. Edward Pickering testified that he endorsed Howe Call's note for $1200 on the strength of Mr. Call's claim that he owned the Thomas E. Call and Son lumber business, and that he was worth $25,000. Mr. Call paid $800 on the note and Mr. Pickering found himself responsible for the rest.

He knew that Mr. Call was on the road more than a year, but still supposed he owned the lumber business. The dates were not readily remembered.

Dr. Jenkins testified to having heard Howe Call claim to own the lumber business.

The claim was made in the presence of himself and Mr. Pickering, all three being interested in various deals.

The afternoon session opened with further examination of Thomas E. Call. The principal witness is expected to be Howe Call.
